Motivano's Corporate Health and Wellness Program

Enhance your corporate wellness program with nationwide discounted gym memberships

- Add extra value to your employee benefits package
- Highly visible network of wellness and fitness providers
- Payroll deductions solution provided
- Includes Health & Wellness Mall featuring discounts on thousands of health and wellness products

Companies across the United States are becoming more aware of the value of a corporate wellness program. Studies have shown that companies can lower health care claims and associated costs by investing in the health and wellness of their employees. Even in a down economy, providing employees with a healthy solution can ultimately save your company money on healthcare, reduce absenteeism and increase productivity and morale.

Motivano has ensured that as many of the gyms in its network as possible offer a full range of optional corporate wellness initiatives beyond just a discounted membership. Your employees can take advantage of many services and incentives, including on-site talks, smoking cessation and weight loss programs, health and lifestyle coaching, wellness education classes, spa services and more.

Along with the free Corporate Health & Wellness Program comes our payroll deduction solution that enables your employees to automatically pay for their gym memberships through payroll. This solution is cost-free and enables employers to consolidate many payroll deductions for voluntary and other benefits into one easy deduction. This eliminates time consuming manual administration of multiple benefit deductions, eligibility assessments, account management and reconciliation. Employees benefit too, having no bills to pay, no checks to write, and no late fees, as well as having online access to deduction history.

Another exciting free benefit includes exclusive membership in Motivano's Health & Wellness Mall. This online discount portal provides employees with another avenue for access to health and wellness information, as well as thousands of health and wellness products and services at exclusively discounted rates.

The World Health Organization recognized the workplace as "the single most important channel to reach the adult population through health promotion programs." Through Motivano's Corporate Wellness program, the employer benefits by reducing health care claims and associated costs. Employees benefit with greater health, higher productivity and lower stress in the workplace. It's a win-win situation for all.
